ARABIC ASTROLOGY

IBN ABI 'L-RIJAL. Liber in Iudiciis Stellarum, the capitula to and beginning of Book 6; a complete bifolium, double columns of 53 lines, written in gothic script with numerous abbreviations, brown ink, ruled lightly with plummet, 8-line historiated initial 'I' in a rectangular compartment depicting a man in a hooded rose-coloured robe and a woman in an orange-red robe holding a globe painted in white and black, all against a burnished gold ground with a bar border in blue, red, and gold with ivy-leaf finials filling 3 margins, smaller penwork initials and paragraph marks, slight rubbing to the gold ground of the miniature, otherwise in excellent condition. 314 x 234 mm (246 x 170 mm)

England, c. 1320.

Arabic astrology in medieval Europe. "The Kitab al-Bari' fi ahkam al-nudjum ... is Ibn Abi 'l-Ridjal's most important scientific work. [The author was born either in Cordova, elsewhere in Spain, or in northern Africa; flourished in Tunis 1016 - 1040; died after 1040]. It is a vast compendium in eight books on four types of astrology: interrogations (1-3), nativities (4-6), catarchic astrology (7), and general (including political and historical) astrology (8). Besides some two dozen manuscripts of the Arabic text there exists an Old Castilian translation (only the first five books survive) made by Yehuda ben Moshe for Alfonso the Wise in 1254. This Old Castilian version was twice translated into Latin (which in turn was three times turned into Hebrew), and once into Old Portugese; probably from the Latin are also derived the French and English versions. This prodigious quantity of material in European languages accounts for most of what interest has been shown in Ibn Abi 'l-Ridjal in modern times; in fact, however, the Kitab al-Bari' is largely copied (often inaccurately) from astrological compilations of the 3rd/9th century which still survive in Arabic" (Encyclopedia of Islam, 2nd edition, 1979, vol. 3, p. 688).

For the figural work in the illuminated initial, specifically the facial features and the monastic-style drapery, compare O. Pächt and J. J. G. Alexander, Illuminated Manuscripts in the Bodleian Library Oxford 3, 1973, no. 538, pl. LII, from St. Mary's York, c. 1312 (Bodleian MS 538).

The present text is the mid-13th century Latin translation from the Spanish made by Aegidius de Tebaldis assisted by Petrus de Regio. 25 manuscripts are recorded by F. J. Carmody, all of the 14th or 15th century save one (16th century), but this list includes French and English texts sometimes without distinction (F. J. Carmody, Arabic Astronomical and Astrological Sciences in Latin Translation, Berkeley and Los Angeles, 1956, pp. 150-4). A single leaf formerly in the C. L. Ricketts Collection (MS 211: De Ricci, I, p. 650, described as French 14th century), acquired in 1915 from P. M. Barnard, is nearly identical in size with the present and may derive from the same parent manuscript.

Nec post hec locum proiectionis si non habuerit certum nec aspicit aliquem. Nec post hec per posse et habere aliquod solum si sol fuerit in signo suo. Nec per pietatem mansuetudinis et humilitatem per signorum ionis si non habuerit testimonium solis quia sol est significator honoris et pietatis et humilitatis et mansuetudinis quando fuerit cum illiter et defectio inter partes. Et quando fuerit planeta in ascendente ad planetam potentem retrogradus significat quod natus est deceptor et mendax. Et si fuerit combustus significat quod natus est debilis et infirmus et quod est minor in factis suis et rebus et parum perficiet de corpore suo. Et messehala non intellexit [redacted] nec que res sit quia dixit in libro suo quod planeta est ligatus cum sole et in corde. Et quando planeta applicat ad corpus illius coniunctio sol fuerit cum ad se et habet redire [redacted] coniunctio in minori. Et dixit in libro suo qui dicitur liber hominum quod nec quando est inter pirec sic coniunctio nisi est completa et ecce propter coniunctionem quando applicat ad finem [redacted] est affiam manis et quando fuerit in hoc [redacted] significat res et malam mortem. Et ille qui non intelligit causam rei quam dicit in eo quod non est et iudicat de eo diversum ab eo quod iudicare debet.

In nomine domini. Hec est pars 6 libri completi in iudiciis stellarum quem composuit haly filius abenragel in revolutionibus annorum [redacted] in ea 14 capitula.
